The Committee Secretary
Senate Select Committee on Mental Health
Department of the Senate
Parliament House
CANBERRA ACT 2600

Dear Sir

Re: Questions On Notice to the Department Of Health (South Australia)

Please note that this letter supersedes previous letters on this subject.

This information has been prepared in response to a request from the Chair of the Senate Select Committee on Mental Health who seeks further detail of the breakdown of a SA Government funding initiative. Specifically the question reads: "CHAIR—It would be useful for us to have a breakdown of the $25 million, so far as you know what it is at the present time, if that is not too much trouble."

The South Australian Government recognises the non-government sector as a valued partner in providing effective mental health services in South Australia. Furthermore, the Government is committed to sustaining the non-government sector's role in the provision of community based mental health support services.

The attachment provides a high-level summary of the 10 strategies that are supported by the $25M initiative.

You will see from the list that the scope of the strategies is far ranging and that significant amounts of time, money and effort are being applied to the areas that will give a boost to services across a range of areas within the sector.

Please let me know if you require any further information.

Yours sincerely

John Brayley
Director Mental Health

Questions on Notice to SA Department of Health

CHAIR—Is there some reason why the $25 million is a one-off injection of funds? Quite a lot of the evidence we have had here and in other states is that too much comes, whether it is just for this year or even over the next three years, and after that it disappears. Innovation and so forth then goes down the drain, and skilled staff become very demoralised by this short-term funding approach. Why $25 million in one year?

Dr Brayley—The $25 million was an opportunity that we had to have funding to boost—

CHAIR—Do you mean it was left over from the budget?

Dr Brayley—It was an opportunity that we would not say no to for two to three years of increased non-government services, because $14 million of it will go to that purpose, and then there is a whole range of other things that it is supporting. So it is one-off funding, but those elements that it is funding are very important and there is obviously going to be an ongoing need for those sorts of services.

CHAIR—So will you guarantee that there will not be a damaging effect of this—in terms of saying, ‘Now you’ve got it, now you haven’t’—on either patients or service deliverers, or on non-government organisations? How can that money be effectively spent, and does it have to be spent in one year or can it be spread over a longer period? What happens at the end of it?

Dr Brayley—The aim is two to three years. I think it is important to note that the work that will be done with that money fits into the more intensive psychosocial rehabilitation end, so it will be people who will have personal goals in their independence, such as accommodation, and some of them might even end up starting some sort of work or other community engagement. The benefits will be there for them to have an intensive period of community rehabilitation with goals during that period. It is possible that many of those people may require an ongoing level of support. The experience of our NGO providers is that the level of support is more intensive initially during the first six to 12 months, but in general, if all is going well, it then tapers off after that period of time. So I would expect that to happen with many of the people in this program. We have the returning home program from Glenside. One of the things that the NGOs have reported there is that there is often quite an early improvement because, if people are in an institutionalised setting, they often go backwards because they have not had to do things for themselves. So it is reasonable that in this population we would see improvement, but many of them will need some sort of ongoing care, but it will not be at the same intensive levels.

CHAIR—In fact, the St Vincent de Paul Society suggested there was a bit of a hump that needed funding. Maybe this is it.

Ms Durrington—Yes.

Dr Brayley—There is a smaller amount of money that will provide lower level disability support care that will be linked up with the disability sector. A psychiatric options coordination service will be formed and that will run alongside other options.

CHAIR—It would be useful for us to have a breakdown of the $25 million, so far as you know what it is at the present time, if that is not too much trouble.

Ms Durrington—Yes.

Dr Brayley—We have all those details.
